Living as Faithful Stewards

This weekend, Father Stephen's homily invites us to see everything we have as a gift from God – our time, talents, and treasures, entrusted to us for His mission. True stewardship is not about obligation, but gratitude; it is a joyful response to God's generosity. You are being asked for your heart – a heart that recognizes God's generosity and wants to respond.

This week, let us ask ourselves: Lord, how are You calling me to share what You've given me, in prayer, service, and love?

Stand up for Life

The Legault government recently introduced a draft Constitution for Quebec. On paper, it might sound noble, but in reality, this text enshrines abortion and euthanasia as constitutional principles, while erasing Quebec's Christian heritage. Worse still, it could become a model for other provinces — dragging all of Canada into even faster moral decline.

The Nicene Creed Explained – Part 17

(By Evelyn Martins, Parish Catechetical Leader, Corpus Christi Parish)

Every week, together as pilgrims of hope, we explore parts of the Nicene Creed.

We continue our reflections on the first statement of the fourth section of the Creed, in which we profess: I believe in one, holy, catholic and apostolic Church

In our previous article, we discussed why we profess that the Church is catholic. In this article, we will reflect on the fourth and final mark of the Church:

The Church is apostolic.

The apostolic foundation of the Church is three-fold: origin, teaching, and structure. The Compendium of the Catholic Church explains it thus:

The Church is apostolic in her origin because she has been built on the foundation of the Apostles. She is apostolic in her teaching which is the same as that of the Apostles. She is apostolic by reason of her structure insofar as she is taught, sanctified, and guided until Christ returns by the Apostles through their successors who are the bishops in communion with the successor of Peter (174).

We will briefly explore each of these dimensions of the Church's apostolicity.

Origin: The Church is built on the foundation of the Apostles

When Jesus appeared to his Apostles after his Resurrection, he said to them, "As the Father has sent me, even so I send you" (John 20:21), thereby entrusting them to continue his mission from the Father. The word "apostle" is derived from the Greek apostolos which means "an envoy", "one who is sent, entrusted with a mission."

Teaching: The Church teaches the same truths that Jesus taught the Apostles

"With the help of the Spirit dwelling in her, the Church keeps and hands on the teaching...she has heard from the apostles" (CCC 857). Thus, we can be assured that for over two thousand years, the Catholic Church has taught, and will continue to teach, the same faith and truths that Jesus taught the twelve Apostles.

Structure: The Church is continuously guided by the successors of the Apostles

Jesus promised his Apostles that he would always remain with them: "I am with you always, to the close of the age" (Matthew 28:20).

That divine mission, entrusted by Christ to the apostles, will last until the end of the world, since the Gospel they are to teach is for all time the source of all life for the Church. And for this reason the apostles... took care to appoint successors... They therefore appointed such men, and gave them the order that, when they should have died, other approved men would take up their ministry (Paul VI, Lumen Gentium 20).

The Apostles were the first bishops. Their successors are subsequent bishops who received and continue to receive the same authority, mission and power from Christ through the Sacrament of Holy Orders. Every Catholic bishop can trace his line of ordination from bishop to bishop over two thousand years to one of the twelve Apostles. Tracing this unbroken line of successive ordinations of priests and bishops all the way back to Jesus is called apostolic succession.

[The Church] teaches that bishops by divine institution have succeeded to the place of the apostles, as shepherds of the Church, and he who hears them, hears

Christ, and he who rejects them, rejects Christ and Him who sent Christ (Paul VI, Lumen Gentium 20).

It is important to note the position of the Pope, as head of the Church, in relation to other bishops. We regard the Pope, as bishop of Rome, to be the successor of the Apostle Peter who was the first Bishop of Rome. There are several instances recorded in the Gospels where Jesus clearly gives primacy to the Apostle Peter. While we do not have time or space to consider them all, perhaps one of the clearest statements is found in the Gospel of Matthew, when Jesus gives Peter, formally called Simon, a new name:

You are Peter, and on this rock I will build my church, and the powers of death shall not prevail against it. I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed in heaven (Matthew 16:18-19).

“This pastoral office of Peter and the other apostles belongs to the Church's very foundation and is continued by the bishops under the primacy of the Pope” (CCC 881). As Lumen Gentium states, “[The Pope], as the successor of Peter, is the perpetual and visible principle and foundation of unity of both the bishops and of the faithful” (Paul VI, LG 23).

The apostolic nature of the Church unified under the leadership of the Pope ensures that the Catholic faith is authentically taught throughout history, free from error.

“What Christ entrusted to the Apostles, they in turn handed on by their preaching and writing, under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit, to all generations, until Christ returns in glory” (CCC 96).

[The Church] is upheld infallibly in the truth: Christ governs her through Peter and the other apostles, who are present in their successors, the Pope and the college of bishops (CCC 869).

In addition to these three apostolic dimensions of the Church – origin, teaching, and structure – apostolicity is imbued throughout the entire Church and extends to each of its members – that means us.

The Church was founded for the purpose of spreading the kingdom of Christ throughout the earth for the glory of God the Father, to enable all men to share in His saving redemption... All activity of the Mystical Body directed to the attainment of this goal is called the apostolate (Paul VI, Apostolicam Actuositatem, 2)

Therefore, the Great Commission¹ is not limited to priests and bishops but is rather directed to each and every Catholic, since we all “share in this mission, though in various ways” (CCC 863).

Every Catholic, from bishops to those of us in the church pews, has a part to play in evangelizing and bringing souls to Christ. We are responsible for cultivating the field where we have been planted so that the Kingdom of God grows and thrives there. As John Paul II wrote, “[Catholics] are bound by the general obligation...to strive so that the divine message of salvation may be known and accepted by all people throughout the world” (Redemptoris Missio, 71).

This is the fourth mark of the Church: The Church is apostolic.

This series of four consecutive articles concludes our reflections on the four marks of the Church.

The Church is ultimately one, holy, catholic, and apostolic in her deepest and ultimate identity, because it is in her that "the Kingdom of heaven," the "Reign of God," already exists and will be fulfilled at the end of time (CCC 865).

"To believe that the Church is holy and catholic, and that she is one and apostolic...is inseparable from belief in God, the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit" (CCC 750). "For it is through Christ's Catholic Church alone, which is the universal help toward salvation, that the fullness of the means of salvation can be obtained" (CCC 816).

- 1 The Great Commission refers to the mission Jesus gave his Apostles before he ascended into Heaven:

"Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you" (Matthew 28:19-20).

"The Nicene Creed explained" continues next week.

See our website (www.corpuschristiparish.ca/nicene Creed) for an introduction to the Nicene Creed and explanations of earlier sections.

We continue to examine the Papal Bull "Spes Non Confundit"

A Papal (or Pontifical) "Bull of Indiction" is an official document, usually written in Latin, published by the Pope to proclaim a Jubilee Year. The Papal Bull for this Jubilee Year of Hope, translated into English, can be found here:

www.vatican.va/content/francesco/en/bulls/documents/20240509

It is worthwhile reading this document to reflect on the Holy Father's theme of hope for this year.

Each week, we select a few sentences from each paragraph in the Bull as inspirational reflections to help us live this Jubilee Year of Hope.

Some excerpts from Paragraph 24:

- Hope finds its supreme witness in the Mother of God. In the Blessed Virgin, we see that hope is not naïve optimism but a gift of grace mid the realities of life.
- At the foot of the Cross, she witnessed the passion and death of Jesus, her innocent son. Overwhelmed with grief, she nonetheless renewed her "fiat", never abandoning her hope and trust in God. In the travail of that sorrow, offered in love, Mary became our Mother, the Mother of Hope.
- It is not by chance that popular piety continues to invoke the Blessed Virgin as 'Stella Maris', a title that bespeaks the sure hope that, amid the tempests of this life, the Mother of God comes to our aid, sustains us and encourages us to persevere in hope and trust.
- The Shrine of Our Lady of Guadalupe in Mexico City is preparing to celebrate, in 2031, the fifth centenary of Our Lady's first apparition. Through Juan Diego, the Mother of God brought a revolutionary message of hope that she continues to bring to every pilgrim and all the faithful: "Am I not here, who am your Mother?" That message continues to touch hearts in the many Marian shrines throughout the world.

Questions to Ponder (from <https://pastoral.center/>)

- ▶ When have you failed to say thank you? Why does this matter?
- ▶ How can you stay faithful when life is difficult?
- ▶ How can you share God's love and mercy with others?
